ADAPTATION OF A FIRST-YEAR STUDENT TO THE NEW STUDY CONDITIONS

The modern system of education requires the new going near the studies of students in the conditions of work of college. Optimal organization of educational activity of student, motive to educational activity, success of professional activity after completion a college in a great deal depends on the level of his adaptation to the new educational environment.

To the question of adaptation of students to the terms of studies in modern psychological literature gets considerable attention. In particular, it is scientific searches of T. Alekseeva, Y. Bohonkova, N. Gerasimova, V. Demchenko, O. Kyznetsova, L. Litvinova, V. Skripnik and others.

Term "adaptation" is used in the different areas of scientific knowledge, however it is yet mine-out only idea about his maintenance. One authors examine adaptation as process, result of "adaptation", and other as "co-operating" of man with a man (by a certain collective, group), or as "co-operation" of man and environments. The process of adaptation envisages, first of all, activity of subject of activity. This activity needs difficult and emotionally-tense psychical activity of freshman [1].

Clear that consideration of process of adaptation of students to the studies in a college must include the row of aspects:

- psychologist-pedagogical (related to adaptation of students to the new didactics system that fundamentally differs from forms and methods of school);
- socially – psychological (has connection with mastering of social norms, establishment and support of social status students in a new collective);
- motivational – internal (forming of positive educational reasons and personal internal determines);
- psychophysical (provides for, adaptation of functions and reactions of organism to the requirements of new environment).

Thus, basic tasks on an assistance to adaptation of freshmen to the professionally-educational environment of college serves as: preparation of first-year students to the new terms of studies, establishment and support of social status of freshmen in a new collective, forming for the freshmen of positive educational reasons, prevention and removal for the freshmen of the psychological and physical discomfort related to the new educational environment.
